

THE AUTHOR’S FORGE

The Investment Page (India Edition)

$3,000 · Indian Authors · Premium but Accessible

CRITICAL NOTE

This changes everything. At $3,000 for the Indian market, the Forge is no longer a luxury residency for Western consultants. It is a premium accelerator for Indian experts—spiritual entrepreneurs, coaches, consultants, and content creators who are ready to publish authority without the traditional gatekeeping. The positioning shifts from “exclusivity” to “seriousness.” From “by application only” to “by commitment only.” The language must feel aspirational but not alienating. Premium but not prohibitively distant.

The Investment

Subhead (serif, 16pt, italic):

What it costs to become the published authority in your field

Body (serif, 12pt):

The Author's Forge is a premium editorial residency designed for Indian experts who are serious about publishing their expertise.

In the Indian publishing ecosystem, a professionally edited, designed, and distributed book typically costs 3,00,000– 5,00,000 when managed through traditional channels—often with no guarantee of quality, voice, or editorial integrity.

The Forge delivers publication-grade authority in five months, with end-to-end editorial mastery, for a structured investment that respects the Indian professional's reality.

Price Display (serif, 48pt, bold, gold accent):

$3,000
(Approximately 2,50,000)

Below price (serif, 11pt):

This includes everything: manuscript development, publishing execution, launch strategy, and 12 months of ongoing authority content. No hidden costs. No surprise add-ons.

Visual element:

Thin gold horizontal rule (0.5pt, #c9a96e, 40% width, centered) below the price.

Design Notes

- The price must be visible immediately. At $3,000, transparency builds trust more than mystery builds prestige.
- Display both USD and INR. Many Indian professionals think in dollars for digital products, but rupees ground it in local reality.
- The anchor is no longer $25k–$50k. It is the Indian traditional publishing cost (3L– 5L) or the cost of a bad ghostwriter.

SECTION 2: THE PHILOSOPHY (The Indian Context)

Layout

- Two-column, 50/50 split
- Left: The problem with publishing in India
- Right: What the Forge delivers
- Thin gold vertical line between columns

Left Column — “The Indian Publishing Reality”

Headline (serif, 14pt):

The Cost of Waiting

Body (serif, 11pt):

Traditional publishing in India: years of waiting, minimal editorial support, and no guarantee your book will ever see the light of day. The gatekeepers decide. You wait.

Self-publishing alone: You become a project manager, not an author. Chasing designers, typesetters, and distributors—while your expertise sits unpublished and your authority unclaimed.

The “50,000 ghostwriter”: You receive a generic manuscript that sounds like everyone else. No voice. No architecture. No launch strategy. Just a book that gathers dust.

Doing nothing: You remain the best-kept secret in your industry. Explaining your expertise on every call. Competing on price. One of hundreds in your category.

Right Column — “The Forge”

Headline (serif, 14pt):

The Return on Authority

Body (serif, 11pt):

Five months from idea to published author. A manuscript that sounds like you—not a template. A publishing package that looks like it came from a major house. A 60-piece launch arsenal. Twelve months of ongoing authority content.

Your book becomes permanent third-party validation. It pre-sells your expertise before the call begins. It filters premium clients from price shoppers. It outlives algorithms and trend cycles.

Whether you are a spiritual entrepreneur, a life coach, a consultant, or a content creator—your expertise deserves a book that carries your name with pride.

The question is not whether you can afford the Forge. The question is whether you can afford to let your best thinking remain invisible.

Bottom (centered, serif, 12pt, italic):

The editor amplifies your voice. The machine handles the logistics. You provide the wisdom.

What Is Not Included

Body (serif, 11pt):

We believe in transparent scope. The following are not included in the residency investment:

Printing costs. If you choose print-on-demand, we manage the setup and logistics. The printing itself is paid directly to the printer.

External marketing spend. We provide the launch arsenal and the strategy. Paid advertising, PR firm retainers, and influencer collaborations are outside the residency.

Travel and event costs. Book launches, speaking tours, and live events are yours to plan. We provide the content. You provide the presence.

Ghostwriting. We do not write your book for you. We extract your expertise, refine your voice, and guarantee your authorship. The manuscript is yours in every sense.

If you are seeking a done-for-you book that you did not write, the Forge is not the right fit.

WHAT ELSE MUST CHANGE

At $3,000 for Indian authors, the following documents need revision:

1. The Hero Section — Remove “10–12 authors by application only” as a luxury signal. Reposition as “10–12 serious experts per cohort.”
2. The 5-Month Journey — Keep the structure but adjust tone from “residency” to “accelerator.”
3. The Catalog — The $25k–$50k anchor is wrong. Replace with Indian market context.
4. LinkedIn Posts — Shift from Western business experts to Indian spiritual entrepreneurs, coaches, and content creators.
5. The Application — Lower the intimidation factor. Seriousness matters more than exclusivity.
6. The FAQ — Add questions about Indian distribution, Hindi vs. English, and GST/invoicing.
7. The Sales Strategy — LinkedIn India + Instagram + WhatsApp become primary channels. Podcasts like The Ranveer Show, TRS, etc.
